New Decisions Reveal Split in Supreme Court

By CHARLOTTE C. MOULTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — New decisions on citizenship and contempt of court highlighted today the Supreme Court's liberal-conservative split over individual liberties.

The court decided five cases Monday, mostly by 5-4 votes. But 20 opinions were required to encompass views the justices wanted to get on the record in each case.

The decisions demonstrated that Chief Justice Earl Warren continues to lead a liberal group including Justices William O. Douglas, Hugo L. Black and usually William J. Brennan Jr.

Of the four most important rulings, this bloc carried only one. It struck down as unconstitutional an act of Congress revoking the U.S. citizenship of American servicemen convicted of desertion in wartime. Here Justice Charles E. Whittaker joined the majority of five.

The Desertion Case

The more conservative members of the court prevailed in a second citizenship case and two contempt cases. This group includes Justices Felix Frankfurter, Harold H. Burton, Tom C. Clark and John M. Harlan.

Albert L. Trop, 33, filed the appeal in the desertion case, challenging a provision of the Nationality Act of 1940. Trop was convicted of desertion by an Army court-martial in Casablanca in 1944. When he sought a passport in 1952, he was informed that his conviction stripped him of his citizenship. He sued to get it back.

The decision, written by Warren, said the law taking away Trop's citizenship constituted "cruel and unusual punishment," which is barred by the 8th Amendment to the Constitution.

It was estimated the ruling Continued on Page Three

Highway Asked to Remove Strip

VAN BUREN (UP) — Rep. Milton Willis of Crawford county Monday asked Highway Director Herbert Eldridge to remove an eight-inch-high concrete medial strip from U.S. highway 64-71 here.

Four persons died Sunday when their car hit the strip and went out of control.

Willis said "people had been talking about the prospects of an accident" since the strip was put in less than two months ago.

He said the strip was dangerous particularly at night when he said it could easily be mistaken for a yellow stripe.

Dulles Declares Nuclear Tests to Be Continued

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles disclosed today that the United States recently decided against halting nuclear tests so it could perfect developments of small and "clean" nuclear weapons.

He said the decision was made at a meeting of President Eisenhower and his top advisers about 10 days ago.

Dulles, at his weekly news conference, also denounced as pure propaganda Russia's announcement that it is halting nuclear testing on its own without an international agreement providing for inspection.

"Dulles said the United States foresaw that Russia would make such an announcement immediately after concluding its most recent intensive series of nuclear tests. He said Russia naturally would have had to halt her testing temporarily anyway before she could embark on a new series."

Dulles said the President and his principal advisers sat down and surveyed the situation. "He said the question was whether the United States should try to steal the march from the Russians by announcing that the United States was temporarily suspending tests of her own."

He said the President and his advisers weighed all the facts and decided it would be basically unwise not to go ahead with American testing. Dulles said the group decided the administration could not live up to its responsibilities to the American people and perhaps humanity itself and halt a program, which it believes to be sound, merely to wage propaganda.

No April Fool, Car Doesn't Have Wheels

DETROIT (UP) — Ford Motor Co. chose April Fool's Day to unveil a car without wheels, but they said it's no joke.

Andrew H. Kucher, Ford vice president of engineering and research, showed a news item on the "Glideair," a vehicle designed to travel on a cushion of air at speeds up to 500 miles an hour. Kucher and his engineering staff demonstrated a three-foot model of a "Glideair" car, and had a "Glideair" scooter for newsmen to ride along a laboratory corridor.

The vehicle demonstrated a ride on what Kucher called "levapads." Tiny jets of air which can be produced either by a gas turbine or turbojet engine hold the vehicles just above the ground. It is guided by a monorail either above or below.

Kucher said the "Glideair" vehicle offers man a break through of the ground speed barrier. He said for long distances sustained high speed travel the "barrier" for wheeled vehicles is about 200 miles an hour. Tires burn up, steel wheels vibrate and lose traction, and control, he said.

But the "Glideair," with the levapads holding it just above the ground, would zoom along over a thin film of air at 200 to 500 m.p.h.

Reverse engine thrust, water scoops or other brakes would stop it.

Heavy Loads for Dump Trucks Okayed

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The attorney general's office ruled Monday dump truck owners can add an auxiliary axle to their trucks to carry heavier loads.

The opinion said the additional axle allows the trucks to carry up to 32,000 pounds.

Means More Primaries, GOP Declares

HARRISON (UP) — State Republican committee chairman Ben C. Henley said Monday the Supreme Court decision upholding a 1957 law which requires parties to hold primary elections means simply the GOP will hold more primaries than it has in the past.

Henley said some people have the misconception the Republicans in Arkansas haven't held primary elections, only conventions. That's not true, he said. The Republicans have held primaries in many counties, but not Newton county where both parties hold conventions.

"This case came up in a county where both parties hold conventions," he added.

And in Little Rock, Deloit Taylor, a member of the Democratic state committee, said the 1957 primary law "is not clear. For one thing, he said, the primary law allows municipal office nominees to be named by petition of electors or by primary election. But the law doesn't say whether one or both methods can be used, Taylor added.

Taylor joined Henley in opposing primaries by both parties at the same place. He said he knew of places which were too small to accommodate two sets of judges and clerks at the same time.

Donations to Red Cross Drive Lagging

Contributions to the Hempsstead County Red Cross campaign now underway total only $711.75 through Monday, it was reported today by Mrs. Sally Andrews, drive chairman. This is far short of the drive quota of $3,408.

Drive Chairman Paul Willis urges all workers to complete solicitations and turn in contributions as quickly as possible, so that a complete checkup can be made. Anyone wishing to contribute to the Red Cross should mail in donations to Mrs. Andrews or Mr. Willis.

Margaret Awaits Queen for Scolding

LONDON (UP) — Sad-eyed Princess Margaret moved around her royal residence today, recovering from what was generally believed to be a howling out from her sister the Queen for entertaining ex-convict Peter Townsend.

The pretty and normally vivacious princess Monday night hurried back to the Clarence House home she shares with her mother. She had seen Queen Elizabeth II twice before that and widespread reports said on both occasions she was dressed down for defying the Queen and letting it be known that she intends to continue seeing Townsend whose hand she renounced in 1955 in a duty before love statement.

The Queen, as head of the Church of England, is opposed to remarriage of a divorced person. Townsend, who wooed Margaret and nearly won her, divorced his wife for misconduct.

Townsend returned to Britain last week after 18 months in voluntary exile during which he toured the world in a car. The Queen at the time of his return was in Holland on a royal visit.

Townsend returned to Brussels by plane Monday night after six days in Britain, one visit with Margaret and a number of telephone calls to the pretty princess.

DECISION DISCOUNTED — Lincoln White, Chief of News Division of the State Department, seated, tells newsmen in Washington that the U. S. has discounted Russia's decision to halt temporarily its nuclear tests without waiting for international agreement. Reading from a statement approved by President Eisenhower, White said Russia's action offered the world no assurance against cheating on a test ban. — NEA Telephoto

British Ship Saves 1,300 From Death

LONDON (UP) — The 7,000-ton British freighter City of Sydney saved 1,300 persons from death early today when a Norwegian liner crowded with German immigrants burned and sank in the Indian Ocean.

Skipper radio reports received in London, Oslo and Amsterdam listed only one person dead in the rescue, one of the greatest sea transfers of all time.

The burning ship was the 9,700-ton Norwegian transport Skau-bryn, on route to Australia from European ports with families hoping to make a new life "down under." It burned 300 miles south-east of the Socotra Islands off the African coast.

Survivors to Aden — The rescue ship was a freighter of the Ellerman Line. It radioed it was taking the survivors to Aden, on the Arabian Peninsula.

The City of Sydney raced to the scene after Capt. Alf Fausto, 43, radioed an SOS saying his ship was burning out of control and probably would have to be abandoned.

Congress Warned Any Pump-priming Tax Cut Now Would Be Folly

April Showers Splatter Much of the U. S.

By UNITED PRESS

April's first showers splattered a good portion of the United States today, and turned up as snow in some northwest and northern areas.

In sections of the West Coast, the showers were heavy, and authorities in the Los Angeles area feared they might bring fresh earth slides along the Pacific Palisades. There a surge of 600,000 tons of rock and dirt buried Vaughn O. Sheff, 58, a state division of highways superintendent Monday. His body was recovered today.

The slides toppled some homes. New cracks appeared in the earth along the cliff after the nightlong rains.

Weathermen said there were three patterns of weather in the nation.

Trains fell from eastern North Carolina north along the coastal plains to southern Maine, with snow appearing in the eastern mountain slopes and hills of Massachusetts, Vermont and Maine.

From the Great Lakes south through the middle and eastern Gulf states, the weather generally was fair. In the northern hills of South Dakota there were more than six inches of new snow.

On the West Coast, mountain stations of northern California reported moderate to heavy snow and the rains were measured at around a half inch up to early morning hours from just north of Los Angeles to southern Oregon.

House Passes Omnibus Flood Control Bill

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House today approved by voice vote an omnibus bill to authorize $1,579,812,000 in river, harbor and flood control projects. The bill carries no immediate funds for these projects.

The vote came on a report by House-Senate conferees which added $34,185,000 to the bill, originally passed by the House March 11. Senate approval was expected shortly.

The House-Senate compromise contained all of the projects in the bill passed March 11.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Emmet Methodist Church by the Rev. Clyde Swift. Burial at Pleasant Ridge Cemetery.

Package Insurance Policies Okayed

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — State Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs said Monday he has approved sale of package insurance policies covering homes and their contents.

He said a combine of three insurance companies will be able to sell the insurance after June 15. Combs instructed the companies to file their rate formula for approval, and also told them to file regular reports on premiums, expenses, and losses.

The three companies are La. Security Insurance Company of North American, Philadelphia Fire and Marine Insurance Company, and the Insurance Company of North America.

Combs last year rejected the combination sale plan because the companies had not worked out the details of their proposal.

Bennett Ordinance to Stay on Ballot

PINE BLUFF (UP) — City Attorney Wilton Steed said Monday a proposed "Bennett" ordinance would remain on the April 8 election ballot, in spite of a treat for court action to stop the voting.

Steed said as far as he is concerned, all proposals would remain on the ballot unless removed by court order.

Wiley Braton, an attorney, said he would ask Jefferson Chancery Court for a writ of mandamus to prevent the vote. He said he did not think the vote would be legal because the ballot had not been published 30 days before the election, as is required by law.

The ordinance would require such organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to file financial reports and other records with city officials.

Assessment Suit Goes to High Court

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — A taxpayer's suit contesting professional assessment of property in Benton county was appealed to the state Supreme Court Monday.

Russell Layne, the taxpayer, appealed from Benton County Circuit Court where Judge Maupin Cummings ruled that the professional assessment should go on 1957 tax records. Layne contended the Benton County Quorum Court voted to use assessment figures of County Assessor Clyde Duncan, but the county judge, L. E. Perry, instructed County Clerk Harry Pratt to use the professional figures instead.

The county assessor set the valuation of property in the county at $88,700,000. The equalization board, using the professional assessment, set the total at $87,919,000. Duncan set the taxable valuation at $8,370,000, but the board using a different formula set the taxable valuation at $12,313,000.

Countywide Wildlife Meet Here April 3

Dub flowers, president of the Hempsstead County Wildlife Association today reminded all members of the Association to make every effort to attend the regular monthly meeting at the City Hall, Thursday night, 7:30 o'clock on April 3.

Since the last regular monthly meeting, Township meetings have been conducted in each of the 12 townships of the County to explain and discuss the purpose and program of the organization. Members have joined in every township and nominations have been submitted for the election of members to the Board of Directors. This election will be conducted Thursday night. Business will be transacted and an interesting colored film will be shown. All members and persons desiring to become a member are urged to attend so as to participate in this important meeting and cast their votes for the choice of candidates to serve on the Board of Directors. Four directors are to be chosen from DeLoan and one for each of the other townships in the county.

President Flowers urges all members who have membership books out to be sure and bring them so that they may be turned in.

JONESBORO (UP) — Randy Gynn, a utility company employee, was elected Monday night as the Jonesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce president.

He replaces Vernon Grosse.

Services for Man Accidentally Killed

PINE BLUFF (UP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for W. T. Lindsey, 49, who was accidentally killed Monday when his tractor overturned on him.

Lindsey was working on a road about a mile from his home near New Hope. A neighbor, Joe Dean, found the body.

Baruch Urges Freezing of Wages, Prices

By UNITED PRESS

Financier Bernard M. Baruch said today that a pump-priming tax cut now would be "folly." He suggested possible tax increases instead.

He also urged labor and industry to help stabilize business by freezing wages and prices.

Baruch, 86, testified before the Senate Finance Committee which resumed hearings on President Eisenhower's economic policies.

His view on tax cut were directly opposed to those of many congressional leaders of both parties.

Elsewhere in Congress:

Unemployment Pay: The AFL-CIO urged the House Ways and Means Committee to approve a Democratic bill providing for a maximum of 39 weeks of unemployment compensation for jobless workers at rates higher than at present. It also called for direct federal payment to jobless persons not now covered by state unemployment programs.

Rackets: Kenneth Griffin, supervisor for Perfect Circle Corp., New Castle, Ind., told Senate racketeers investigators that if company men had done nothing when a mob approached the strike-bound factory in October, 1955, "we might not be here to tell about it." The committee is investigating whether the company or the United Auto Workers was responsible for shooting during the strike in which eight persons were wounded.

Civil Rights: The House passed and sent to the Senate a $15,557,870 appropriation to run the White House and other executive agencies in fiscal 1957. Included was $760,000 for operation of the new Civil Rights Commission.

Space: Non-military space exploration would be controlled by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics under an administration plan approved by GOP congressional leaders at the White House this morning.

Farm: Knowledge advised the President that he did not believe Congress would override Monday's veto of the bill to freeze farm price supports and acreage allotments at 1957 levels.

Rivers and Harbors: The House passed by voice vote a bill authorizing $1,578,812,000 in river, harbor and flood control projects. "Public Works: The Senate opened debate on another major Democratic anti-recession bill — aimed at pumping a billion dollars into local public works projects.

The pressure came from influential Speaker Sam Rayburn, who will call the signals in the House where any tax-reducing legislation must originate, and from a member of the President's own cabinet, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell.

Their insistence conflicted with the advice of high administration officials that the President wait until late May, when he will have a fuller picture of economic conditions, before deciding on the tax question.

The President called GOP congressional leaders to the White House this morning to review the progress of his anti-recession program. He planned to confer in the afternoon with Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, and later in the day with Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks and Charles H. Percy, Chicago movie camera manufacturer.

Percy has had a number of private talks with administration officials about his success in increasing sales by making selective price cuts — a step that Eisenhower has urged business generally to take to stimulate buying.

Other economic developments.—The Senate called up for debate another major Democratic anti-recession bill—a measure aimed at pumping one billion dollars in federal funds into local public works projects.

A federal deficit of between two and three billion dollars this fiscal year was seen today by government experts as a distinct possibility.

Officials also said the administration undoubtedly will have to ask this session of Congress for another increase in the federal debt limit to accommodate an expected rising deficit in fiscal 1959 which begins next July 1.

The House Banking Committee approved a proposal designed to make an additional three billion dollars available for ending by big New York and Chicago banks.

4-State Search for Kidnaped Girl

ATWOOD, Kan. (UPI)—Police in at least four states today sought a 10-year-old girl allegedly snatched away by her father as she stood on the steps of a schoolhouse here.

Special alerts were issued at East St. Louis, Ill., where the father, Clarence P. Powers, 32, was living, and at Hannibal, Mo., and Quincy, Ill., where he has relatives.

A kidnapping warrant was sworn out Monday.

Officers said Powers Monday called his daughter, Betty Jean, 10, to his car. The girl got in the car and Powers drove off, police said. The child's parents had been separated and her mother died two years ago after remarriage.

The girl had been living here with an aunt, Powers telegraphed later to the aunt, Mrs. Arden Hale, and said the girl was all right. The telegram was sent from Arapahoe, Neb., about 30 miles northeast. Powers said he would contact Mrs. Hale again in a few days.

Bennett Will Tell Plans by April 15

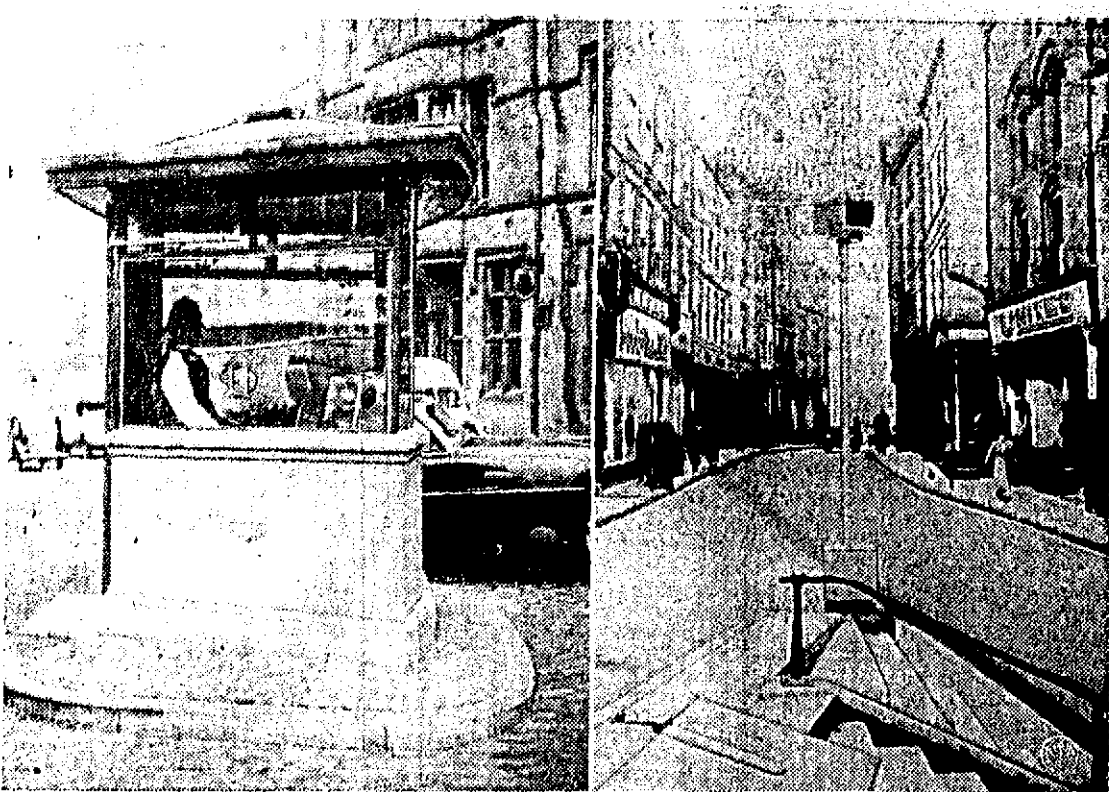

LITTLE ROCK (UPI)—Attorney General Bruce Bennett, the only constitutional officer who has not filed for re-election, said today he expects to announce by April 15 his intentions on what post he will seek in the Democratic primary.

"Expectations can change," he said. The attorney general has been rumored as a candidate for governor, the only state post contested so far.

Two candidates have filed for that office, Gov. Orval E. Faubus seeking a third term, and Chris Finkbeiner, Little Rock meat packer.

Only one congressional post has been contested. That is the Third Congressional seat which takes in northwest Arkansas. The three candidates are Rep. J. W. Trimble of Berryville, Franklin Wilder of Fort Smith, and Donald Poe of Waldron.

Constitutional officers seeking re-election are Lieut. Gov. Nathan Gordon of Morrilton, Secretary of State C. G. Hall, State Auditor Jimmy "Red" Jones of Magnolia, State Treasurer J. PICTURE PATROL—When a policeman in Durham, England, turns the TV control knob it's for a different reason than to turn on the set or adjust the picture. They have installed an ingenious television traffic control system for two of the city's bridges. Miniature cameras, right photo, are mounted on the approaches to the bridges. The images are transmitted to a monitoring screen in the booth, left photo, where a policeman, snug and comfortable, controls three sets of traffic lights. The Parakeet Population Is Soaring

By GAY PAULEY

United Press Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI)—A report which came across my desk this week says the parakeet population is (ahem) soaring.

It says there are about 11.5 million of the feathered critters in one fifth of the nation's homes; an increase of more than 1,000 per cent since the first pet census was made in 1951.

The news comes as no surprise to me, because I'm one of the millions who have succumbed to their supposed charm and personality. I'm the proud proprietor of two—one, because he came as a birthday gift from a friend trying to be thoughtful; the other because I figured the first needed company. I use the word "proud" for one reason.

Good For Gossiping Get a bunch of parakeet fan-club members together, swap stories about their pets' exploits, and they spend hours gabbling about the habits of their children.

Mine have hardly reached the word stage—only the landing, the landing, or the landing, behind the sofa stage. But the experts at the R. T. French Co., which makes bird foods, says give them time and training.

They may turn out as bright as one in San Francisco named "Melle." She reportedly has a 500 word vocabulary including the Lord's Prayer, the Pledge of Allegiance and a couple of nursery rhymes.

There's another bird named "Poopy," who converses in two languages; and one named "murfy," who belongs to the literary editor of a Jesuit publication and can voice 18 ecclesiastical phrases.

Lost parakeets are often found because they "talked" the home telephone number, or address of the owner. French says there is one bird named "Jo-Jo" in Atlanta who last year filed an income tax return. He earned $15 a week for uttering a company sales slogan on the air.

Chilled But Talkative W. R. Knott, French's president, says his company gets about 38,000 letters a year. There was the Canadian woman who wrote that she missed her pet about the same time she put a plastic bag of bread in the refrigerator to keep it fresh. Several hours later, preparing a sandwich, she found the bird. He was in the bread bag, chilled, but still saying "Pretty boy."

Knott said the interest in parakeets apparently boomed when federal restrictions on shipment were relaxed in 1951 although a few states still forbid interstate transport of them.

Fanciers include Sir Winston Churchill, Mamie Eisenhower, Billy Graham, Lawrence Welk and Faye Emerson.

SET FEES The Code of Hammurabi, used in ancient Mesopotamia, allowed surgeons to charge 10 shekels for a serious operation performed successfully on a patient. Plebeians could be charged only five shekels and slaves two shekels.

Soil Bank Is Open to More Farmers Now

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said today it will accept immediately additional 1958 soil bank acreage reserve applications for spring wheat, corn, cotton, rice, and tobacco from farmers whose names have been carried on waiting lists.

Their applications had been held up for lack of funds. But Congress last week increased the 600 million dollars originally available for the 1958 program to 750 million dollars.

The department said that with the possible exception of corn producers it appears that all eligible farmers on waiting lists in county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices will be permitted to sign and file applications.

Under the law, funds available for corn payments in any one year are limited to 300 million dollars. Corn farmers have offered acreage which would require total payments of more than 311 million dollars this year.

To the extent these offers are not reduced by farmers, acceptance of waiting list offers will be limited by corn fund allocations. A department official said that in all states except Minnesota, the waiting list applications will be processed on a "first come first served" basis. In Minnesota, the corn funds will be distributed on a percentage basis.

The applications both accepted and unaccepted for all crops in the soil bank through March 28 represent 18,065,723 acres calling for payments totalling $739,328,006. The breakdown by crops:

Wheat, 5,44,093 acres, $107,468,088; corn 7,251,355 acres, $311,400,424; cotton 5,084,954 acres, $281,343,326; rice 170,151 acres, $11,539,137; tobacco 115,168 acres, $27,375,031.

Finkbeiner Gets Help at Ft. Smith

FORT SMITH (UPI)—Dr. William H. Polk, Sebastian county coroner, said Monday he won't seek re-election, but instead will aid Chris E. Finkbeiner in his campaign for governor.

"In my opinion, I can be of more help to the city of Fort Smith and the state of Arkansas by devoting my time and efforts to electing Chris Finkbeiner for governor," said Polk.

Polk, a boyhood friend of the Little Rock meatpacker, had already filed his corrupt practice pledge, but had not paid his filing fee. Two candidates for coroner remain. They are B. G. Hendrix, an ambulance company owner and Elmer W. Morris, an insurance man.

Sixty percent of Arkansas tourist business came from bordering states in 1956, 22% of these travelers came from the North Central States.

Producers Threaten Major State Dairies

LITTLE ROCK (UPI)—The Central Arkansas Milk Producers Association threatened to sell its milk today to milk products and cheese plants rather than four major dairies, if the dairies refused to meet its price.

David L. Parr, CAMPA secretary-manager, said the association wants to extend the winter price level of $5.20 a hundredweight through the summer. The dairies, he said, want to pay about $5 a hundred.

He said the reason for the price demand was that consumption of milk in the Little Rock area has increased, about 130 milk producers in CAMPA district went out of business in 1957 because they couldn't make enough profit.

Senators Ask Protest to Farm Bill Veto

By BERNARD BRENNER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Democrats hoped today for a grass roots protest in the next two weeks to strengthen their admittedly slim chance of overriding President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill.

Eisenhower's rejection of the bill—which would freeze price supports and acreage allotments at not less than 1957 levels drew a blast of hot words from critics but no immediate move to overturn the veto.

One Democratic strategist said it was obvious that "we don't have the votes to override today" in the Senate. Such a vote must be taken in the Senate before the issue can go to the House.

A two-thirds majority is necessary in each house to reverse a presidential veto. The farm bill was far short of this margin when it passed the Senate, 48-32, and the House, 210-172.

Democratic sources said no action on the veto would be taken until the congressional Easter recess ends April 14. One farm bill leader said it was hoped that angry farmers would "talk to" enough Republican senators during the recess to swing them into line with the Democrats.

Lower Daily Supports
There was no definite decision from the Senate's Democratic leadership as to whether the issue would be put to a vote at all if private soundings during the Easter recess indicate there is no chance of success.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (Mont.), the acting party leader, said his "personal prediction" was that there "certainly would be" an effort to override the veto. But with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) out of town there was no final word on the subject.

Lower supports on dairy products went into effect today. Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson set the rates Monday at $3.06 per hundredweight for manufacturing milk and 56.6 cents a pound for butter fat. These rates are slightly higher than those announced originally 10 days ago because the parity price has risen since then.

Benson also set the 1958 corn price support rate at $1.36 a bushel, compared with $1.40 for the 1957 crop. Both the 1957 and 1958 rate reflected 77 per cent of parity, but the dollars-and-cents rate for this year was lower because the parity price of corn dropped.

"LEATHERNECKS"

"Leathernecks," nickname for men of the U.S. Marine Corps, came from a black leather stock, part of the early uniform worn to keep a fighter from getting his throat slit by the whistling sweep of a snickersnee.

First Class Arthur David Fairchild son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fairchild of Irving, Texas. The marriage was solemnized on March 15, in the First Baptist Church, Natchez, Miss., with Reverend D. Lewis White officiating.

For her wedding, Mrs. Fairchild wore a powder blue cotton and silk suit, with blue and white accessories.

The bride was graduated from Hope High School and Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas. The bridegroom was graduated from Irving High School, Irving, Texas, and is presently in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at England Air Force Base, Alexandria, La.

The couple plan to make their home in Dallas after he completes his four years of service in October of this year.

DOROTHY DIX

When Should Bachelor End Search for Wife?

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with a girl who, like me, is a senior in high school. This, I'm sure, is the gist of most letters you receive. My difference is in the fact that Diane is the only girl I ever dated. My mother says this is wrong; that I should look around before making my decision to marry the one and only love of my life. Do you think that a young man should conduct a shopping tour in the matrimonial market before deciding on a wife, or do you think he can be happy with his first and only love? LENNIE

Dear Lennie: I presume you intend to delay marriage until you have got a start as a wage-earner. By that time, if you still feel as you do now, go ahead and marry the girl. It wouldn't be wise to act on your present feelings, however. For one thing, you're very young; for another, you see Diane every day and never give your eyes or mind a chance to consider other young ladies. Careful shopping for a wife isn't a guarantee of a perfect marriage; neither is first love. Give yourself a little time. Then, if Diane still has perfect charm for you, she's the one!

Dear Dorothy Dix: Should I let my husband's old love affair worry me? He's wonderful to me in every way. Doesn't drink, never looks at other girls, is a good provider and loving father. Should I feel that I am second choice? Does the public look down on me as being second choice after he was engaged to this other girl? RILLA

Dear Rilla: You're torturing your self with your ridiculous worries and missing up what could be a fine marriage. Your husband may have been engaged to another girl, but he married you! Thank God every day of your life for sending you such a marvelous husband. The "Public" has long ago forgotten that he ever was engaged.

New Decisions

would restore the citizenship of at least 7,000 soldiers and airmen convicted of desertion by courts-martial in World War I and given dishonorable discharges. The decision would also apply to Navy and Marine Corps desertion cases and to World War I servicemen convicted of desertion.

However, the court upheld 5-4 the validity of another section of the 1940 Nationality Act requiring denaturalization of a U.S. citizen who votes in a foreign election.

In that case, Frankfurter, Clark, Harlan and Burton had Brennan on their side. Whitaker joined the dissenters.

The Contempt Case
Speaking for the majority, Frankfurter said Congress properly passed the law under its power to regulate foreign affairs.

The appeal came from Clemente Martinez Perez, 48, of El Paso, Tex., who voted in Mexico and remained there to avoid military service in World War II. After the war he sought to reenter this country.

In vigorous dissents the liberal wing maintained that the government has no power to take away the citizenship of a person born in the United States.

Harlan spoke for the majority in the principal contempt ruling. It upheld, again 5-4, the convictions of Gilbert Green and Henry Winston, two top Communists who jumped bail in 1951 when called to start serving their five-year conspiracy sentences. They will now have to serve three more years for contempt.

Rope Brings Charge Against Suspect

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Lewis Cloud, 18, of North Little Rock, faces a charge of destroying public property, all because police happened to see a rope.

The rope just happened to be made of blanket strips and happened to be hanging from a North Little Rock jail window.

Police on discovering the dangling rope rushed to the cell where it came from and saw Cloud jump from a window ledge to the jail floor. They also found that a padlock on an inside window screen had been broken and a small amount of putty had been dug from around one of the bars in the window.

Cloud had been picked up for questioning about a robbery last week.

Of the 11 million travelers entering Arkansas in 1956, nearly 10 million came by auto.

West Suggests Talks to Be Held in Russia

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Western Big Three proposed to Russia today that diplomatic talks be held in Moscow beginning in the second half of April to determine whether a profitable summit meeting can be held.

The proposal—first Big Three communication to the Kremlin since Nikita Khrushchev took over as premier—was contained in identical notes delivered in Moscow today.

The United States, Britain and France said that the foreign ministers are satisfied with the preliminary work they could set a time, place and composition for a summit conference.

The State Department said the note setting out the proposed procedure received "unanimous approval" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Last year, highway users paid over $43,000,000 in taxes to the state of Arkansas. 20% of this amount or $8,600,000 was earned on city and town streets.

$1 Million Increase in Tax Collections

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—State Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney report today Arkansas' gross tax collections in February totaled $9,390,377.

The figure was an increase of $1,001,666 over the same month last year with higher sales, income, and severance tax collections accounting in part for the difference.

Sales tax collections last month totaled $2,429, compared to $2,342,512 for February, 1957. The income tax collections totaled $3,120, an increase of $333,001, and the severance tax total was $342,775 up $110,224.

The gasoline tax showed a drop of $27,639 last month to $2,445,116. The ad valorem tax, after the registration, here and imported wine taxes showed decreases also.

Taxes collected for the nine months of the 1957-58 fiscal year totaled $94,375,466, an increase of $13,345,139 over the nine months of the 1956-57 fiscal year.

Special revenues last month totaled $3,083,307, down $55,407, down $6,307, and general revenues totaled $6,291,870 up $106,994.

THE STORY: Tom Weber, returning to Barkerville after 11 years, reveals to Marshall Eads that a letter addressed to "Tom Eads" offering him a job, had brought him home. The letter was from Pete Rawlins, a local cattle baron.

VIII

Eads put the letter back into the gray envelope. "This is why you came back to Barkerville?"

"I didn't answer the letter," Weber said testily, "and I didn't come here to take the job. No body—nobody except you now knows that Tom Weber and Tom Fargo are the same man. Rawlins didn't know it when he wrote that letter. He wouldn't have written it had he known."

"Well," said Eads, "if the letter didn't bring you back, what did?"

"One place is the same as another," Weber paused. "All right, was curious. What's up? A range war?"

"I don't know," Eads said worriedly. "Rawlins has a lot of men on his ranch, but he has plenty of land of his own, plenty of cattle. He's Mike Denver's brother-in-law and Denver is interested in thieves with Jeff Alderton."

He hesitated. "Jeff Alderton has 230,000 acres of his own land when he married Lily Barker. Between them they now have over six hundred thousand. But Jeff wasn't exactly starving when he married Lily. And he's going to be the next governor of this state. Certainly he's not in trouble!"

The barbecue was a free and easy affair, but like goes to like and soon the businessmen of Barkerville found themselves gathered in one group, the big ranchers, Lou Sampton, Homer Quayle, Rawlins and Jeff Alderton, in another. But there was a third group, the largest of all, in a thinned-out grove of cottonwoods.

These were the farmers, the sodabusters, most of them newcomers. Mike Denver knew the farmers. He had sold them their land and kept up his contacts with them.

"Well, boys," he said to a group of the farmers, "it's going to be awfully nice having one of our own people down at the state capitol."

"Neighbor, maybe," said a Bohemian, named Leo Blatnik. "Friend? I dunno. A rich man is a friend of another rich man."

"That don't go for Jeff," Denver said expansively. "Jeff's pa was as poor as anyone when he first came here."

"Mr. Alderton is a cattleman," Blatnik went on. "Cattleman is never friend of farmer."

Charlie Weber materialized out of the grove, a small, dark, round man of the group. "Nor is a lobo wolf over the friend of a tame house dog," he said to Denver. "All the votes you'll get out of us farmers you can stick in your eye and not even have to rub it."

"Charlie," Mike Denver said, "I'd like to talk to you a moment."

"Talk"

Denver inclined his head in a signal that he wanted the talk to be private. Charlie Weber hesitated, then followed the politician.

"Hard to believe you're one of the farmers," Denver said then. "Why, you and old Sam Barker were the first settlers in Lobo Valley."

"That's right, Mike," Charlie Weber said cheerfully. "I ran my brand over 670,000 acres once."

He shook his head. "This land you sold the farmers, Mike, it was mine once."

"And now you're farming, what is it? Eighty acres?"

"Forty, Mike. About all a man can handle by himself."

"Your son's back," Charlie, Denver said. "I haven't seen him, but I heard he's here at the grove somewhere."

"I saw him."

Mike Denver studied the old settler thoughtfully a moment. "Three-four hundred votes, Charlie, aren't going to elect or defeat Jeff Alderton, but these are what you might say hometown votes. It wouldn't help us to have it get around the state that Jeff's hometown folks voted against him. I'd like to carry Lobo Valley."

"You won't. I can tell you that right now. The farmers aren't for Alderton."

"They can be. You can swing them to Jeff. A lot of them anyway."

Charlie Weber regarded Denver sharply. "You'll pay me if I do?"

Mike Denver missed the faint note of mockery in Weber's voice. "I'll make it worth your while."

"How much, Mike? How much?"

"We can work out a deal."

Weber shook his head. "All this land you sold the farmers, Mike, it was mine once. And most of the land that Jeff Alderton's brand now grazes over. You got that from me, Mike."

Denver now saw the trend of Charlie Weber's words. "You drank it away," he snapped.

"That's right, I did. But if you hadn't been there, standing with the bottle at all times, I might not have been able to drink it all away. You're a politician now, Mike, but to me you're still a saloonkeeper."

"And you're still the swamper who worked in my saloon after you drank away everything."

"No," said Weber, "when I became a swamper in your saloon, I drank no more. It was there all the time, all around me, but I never tasted a drop again. Not after I sank low enough to become your swamper."

Mike Denver said grimly, "All right, you've spoken plainly. Charlie. You've told me where you stand. Just hope that you don't get in my way, because if you do, I'll stay on you!"

Seek Men Who Robbed Couple

PARAGOULD (UP)—Greene county officers were looking today for two men who robbed an elderly farm couple of their life savings Saturday night and brutalized the woman.

Sheriff Bill Hyde said victims of the robbery were Isaac Isom, 84, and his wife, 59.

Isom told the authorities the two men came onto his front porch Saturday night. They turned off the porch light and when he went to investigate, they turned on the light and grabbed him.

One of the men threw him across a bed and then grabbed Mrs. Isom. She was beaten, and the men stripped off Isom's shirt in taking more than $800 which he kept in a pocket. The men took about $700 which Mrs. Isom had sewed in her undershirt.

Most of the money was in $20 bills. It represented the couple's life savings.

After the robbery, the men left on foot.

Hyde said leads were still being traced in the case.

The Isom's live about twelve miles southwest of here.

The incident was similar to one of Jan. 13 in which Roy Winfrey, 66, was robbed of $12.

Jap Painter Finds U. S. Nose Difficult

By Doc Bulea
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—"You are one of six outstanding journalists the telegram said, 'selected for a free portrait (half hour sitting) by famous Japanese artist Shojiro Takata, whose work is now on display at Japan Trade Center."

"Takata will immortalize you in your office or at the Japan Trade Center any time this week. Just call us."

Immortalization is worth a call. "Who," I asked the man at the trade center, "are the other five outstanding journalists?"

"Well," he said, "there's Harry Kenna, Hy Gardner, and a couple of other fellows—all outstanding."

All Outstanding

"That's okay," he said, "they never heard of you either. But you're all outstanding—or will be when Takata gets through with you."

Takata arrived at the office with painting kit in hand, bowed twice, inhaled through his teeth picked up from his kit a dark cake the size of a bar of soap, and said:

"Smee."

"I know it's you," I said. "How do you want me to pose?"

"This smee," said Takata, holding up the cake. "I paint with it. Spelled s-u-m-i. Pronounced smee. Makes black painting. It is pine tree wood, burned to charcoal, mixed with glue binder. Process invented 2,000 years ago."

He got a glass of water, wet the sumi, rubbed a brush across it.

"Please to sit at typewriter. Look at wall. You have hakubyo face, tansai suit-coat."

No Tansai Coat

"I may have a hakubyo face," I said. "But the coat is from Barney's Seventh Avenue and..."

It didn't take long to be immortalized. He set it in front of me. "Seems to me the nose is more immortal than the rest," I said.

"Japanese artists," put in the man from the trade center, who had come along, "have a hard time in the U.S. American noses look very big to them."

Takata bowed.

"Thank you," I said. "Sayonara."

It's nice to know you're an outstanding journalist, even if only one respect.

Semifinals in Hockey Playoff

By UNITED PRESS
The National Hockey League's semi-final playoffs resume at Detroit and Boston tonight with both the trailing Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers slight favorites.

The Red Wings, down three games to none in the best-of-seven series, hosted the regular-season champion Montreal Canadiens, while the Rangers were invading foreign ice for their fourth game with the Bruins, whom they trail two games to one.

Defeat tonight would eliminate the Red Wings, but the oddsmakers were inclined to believe the Canadiens would not win in a sweep and made Detroit a 6 to 5 favorite. The Canadiens, who opened at 14 to 5, were overwhelming favorites to win the series, however.

The Rangers are playing without star center Red Sullivan since the opening game, which they won, also were slight picks over the Bruins, who may have to play without Bronco Horvath. Their leading scorer who suffered a head injury in the Bruins' 5-0 win last Saturday.

Horse Owner Sues Oaklawn Jockey Club

HOT SPRINGS (UP)—A Texas horse owner Monday sued Oaklawn Jockey Club for $74,200 as result of an accident in which he was injured two years ago. George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex., claimed he was injured in an accident March 9, 1956. His attorney, David Whittington, brought suit in federal court here. Becknell alleged he was hurt in a freak accident when a horse bolted at a gate leading from the stables to the track. When the animal bolted, the suit alleges, Becknell was knocked from the horse. Becknell claimed the track was negligent in operation of the gate.
